STATE CAPITAL

Richmond.—

Enforcement machinery which will add $200,000 to the annual return from the inheritance tax law will be provided for in a bill which will be introduced in the General Assembly this week. The measure, which will have the approval of the State board, will not change the present inheritance tax rate, but changes in the method of administering the law are expected to bring in a greater return than would ask increase in the rate. The bill will place the enforcement of this law under the Auditor of Public Accounts. At present it is entirely in the hands of county officials.

"There are twenty-four counties in Virginia that have not paid as much as a dollar in inheritance tax into the State treasury during the past five years," J. Vaughan Gary, counsel for the State tax board, told the Louse Finance Committee.

The attorney stated he was not yet ready to disclose complete details of the measure as it was still under preparation. He said, however, that the bill would provide complete machinery for enforcement of the inheritance tax and added that he believed "enforcement of the law" would result in more funds being received by the State than if an increase in the rate were ordered.

No State official has administrative powers over the inheritance tax law at present, its enforcement being in the hands of county officials. The measure sponsored by the tax board will provide for submission of prompt reports to the State auditor of property subject to the tax.

The finance committee had numerous measures designed to increase the State's revenues before it, but deferred action temporarily. One of these bills was the Moffett measure providing for an increase in the intangible tax rate from 55 cents to $1.10 on each $100. The committee will hold a hearing on the Gordon bills designed to limit the maximum compensation of officers in the State receiving fees.

After being reduced to $6,000, the Wickham bill increasing the salaries of Supreme Court judges, was passed by the House of Delegates by a vote of 52 to 43. The measure as passed by the Senate fixed the salary of the appellate judges at $7,500 a year, with the president's salary $7,700. Friends of the measure felt that the bill would not be passed by the House, so a compromise was reached. The amendment will be agreed to by the Senate, Senator Wickham said upon being advised of the House action.

Delegate Rodgers, of Petersburg, offered a bill to provide for the placing of busts of Jefferson, Wilson, Monroe and Madison in Virginia's "hall of fame," in the rotunda of the Capitol. Mr. Rodgers also offered a resolution accepting the Sir Moses Ezekiel statue of Jefferson from the estate of Thomas Nelson Page. The donors of this work of art are Mr. and Mrs. Rosewell Page.

The Senate Committee on Roads devoted several hours to the consideration of the bill by Senators Goode, Downing, Rogers and Clements, which seeks to place the transportation lines of all sorts—the jitney and the bus lines in particular—under the jurisdiction of the State Corporation Commission, and indefinitely postponed action on the measure. The bill was bitterly opposed by James R. Cannon, City Attorney for Richmond; Colonel Jerry, the city manager for Portsmouth; R. W. Pearrow, City Attorney for Norfolk, and George N. Conrad, of Harrisonburg, representing the Virginia Auto-Bus Association, appearing in opposition. E. Randolph Williams, general counsel for the Virginia Railway and Power Company, supported the bill, known as bill 137.

Charging that "a million dollars has been thrown away in Virginia" in the too frequent changing of textbooks used in the public schools, Delegate Graves, of Orange, appeared before the Schools and Colleges Committee of the House to urge immediate action on his bill which gives the Department of Public Instruction authority to change such books but once in ten years.

"It is a shame," Delegate Graves said, "to force the parents of poor children to pay out money every year or two for new sets of books."

The bill gives the General Assembly the right to change text-books every two years, but takes away from the school authorities the power to adopt new books every four years. Members of the committee expressed entire sympathy for the bill, and a sub-committee—composed of Delegates Fain, Horner and Warren—was appointed to confer with the superintendent of Public Instruction with a view to listing certain exceptions to the books which may not be changed but once in a decade. The committee also expressed a desire to abolish the practice of giving local authorities optional lists of books from which to select the books for their own schools.

The Senate Committee on General Laws has reported the Byrd bill, which restores to the city the Ford lot, which was given the State for the proposed war memorial. The committee recommended the measure be sent to the Finance Committee for consideration and report.

The bill provides that the city shall, when the committee on the war memorial shall signify readiness to proceed with the memorial, convey to the State a site as will be acceptable to the committee.

The Senate Committee for Courts of Justice ordered a favorable report on the bill which makes it a misdemeanor for any person to circulate, repeat or make any false statement concerning any bank or trust company, which may result harmfully to any such institution.

Two other bills (61 and 314) dealing with the recordations of deeds, contracts, leases, etc., were ordered reported for the favorable consideration of the Senate.

Under the provisions of a fourth bill reported by this committee was one whereby persons of parties are empowered to administer oaths to any witness, as can also the judge or the clerk.

A bill creating a real estate commission in Virginia, with the power to revoke the license of any real estate man who is convicted of fraudulent practices, and licensing all real estate brokers and real estate salesmen, has been introduced in the General Assembly by Senator Garrett. The measure is Senate bill No. 155, and has the approval of the Virginia Real Estate Association, representing Realtors in every part of Virginia.

The bill does not keep a man from selling his own property or disposing of it through an attorney or an attorney in fact acting with his power of attorney, but makes licensing of the real estate men in the business compulsory, thereby, the Real Estate Association believes, making a way in which crooked operators can be barred from the business. A penalty not to exceed a fine of $500 and more than six months in jail is provided, or both through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the Body, is the way the Hall's Catarrh Medicine works. It is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces. Sold by druggists for over 40 years. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

The Senate Finance Committee, the representative of one company engaged in the business of selling gasoline appearing and supporting the bill. He asked that the standard fixed by the Federal government be applied to the State of Virginia, as it would be impossible to have a standard for each State.

BILLS PASSED.

The following Senate bills were passed:

Senate bill 32—To prescribe the size of type in writings to be docketed or recorded.

S. B. No. 131—To amend and reenact an act approved March 24, 1922, entitled "An act to require State departments, officers, boards and commissions now required to make annual reports, to make biennial reports in lieu thereof."

S. B. No. 147—To amend and reenact section 6357 of the Code of Virginia.

S. B. No. 50—To amend and reenact section 642 of the Code of Virginia.

S. B. No. 81—An act authorizing the city of Norfolk, in addition to the powers now by law given, to fix and determine pierhead and bulkhead lines in waters within the territorial limits of the city of Norfolk, for which the Federal government does not exercise control.

S. B. No. 154—Designating that part of primary road number 11 of the State highway system from Gainesville to Harrisonburg as the "Scotwood Trail."

Danger in Poisoning Rats.

Poisoning rats as a measure to prevent plague is said to be dangerous because as long as the fleas stay on the rats they are not dangerous, but when the rat dies they leave his body and transfer themselves to another warm-blooded host.

Tender-Hearted Empress.

For generations the Chinese people have drunk no milk because a certain empress was tender-hearted and thought it a mean trick to deprive calves of their nourishment, based on older ancient drinking milk.

THE WOMAN PRO OFFICER

Back in 1878-9 when the first prohibition movement swept America, Mrs. Georgianna Hopley went out with the Bucyrus group to clean up that Ohio town. Her husband, John Hopley, was editor of the Bucyrus Journal. Of their children seven are now active newspaper men and women.

The eighth, Georgia Hopley, has graduated from newspaper work into a job that combines the ambitions of both mother and father. She writes on the letterhead of the United States Treasury department and signs "General Prohibition Agent, Constructive Information Bureau, Prohibition Unit," and with a flash of humor recently added, "That's all."

She is said to have been the first woman in Ohio to enter active newspaper work. In 1900 Governor Nash appointed her representative of Ohio women at the Paris exposition. She remained abroad for many months and has since made frequent trips to England and France visiting your women become more and more active in politics after has given much of her time to political publicity campaigns.

Whatever else Miss Hopley's business cards say they always have in the lower left-hand corner, Home Adorn, Bucyrus, Ohio. "She isn't civic pride alone that makes up my loyalty to the old home town," she insists. "Bucyrus is always on the map!"

A large part of her work for the prohibition unit consists in public speaking. Reporters who have followed her meetings are astonished into commenting on the fact that she is broad-minded, with all her enthusiasm for prohibition. She comes with official power, they say, but she is content to let the women vest with the public. She is spending her time just "telling folks about it." She tells them what the enforcement forces are doing. And then there's the "target" statistics have been thrown in the way. She pictures those which are used maliciously and those left by the uninformed and the unintelligent.

Controlling the malicious wet forces isn't the part of the job that this skilled newspaper woman is interested in. Education of those who are uninformed and indifferent carries to Georgia Hopley the thrill of using as practical as a shoe-selling campaign and as idealistic as the dreams of her mother.

MUNICIPAL HOUSEKEEPING

Of all the part-time jobs that have recently developed for women, those connected with "municipal housekeeping" seem to have proved the most interesting. Local politicos tasks ordinarily pay as little that they can be undertaken only by the woman who has sufficient income to meet her needs, plus some time that she would like to put to service outside her home.

A book which modestly announces itself as the "Who's Who and What's What of the Woman's World," lists Mrs. H. B. Brown's work as member of the town council of Oakdale, La., as a real achievement. To get the background of her work it is said, it's almost necessary to have visited Louisiana to know how the force that old French plus old Southern tradition is still exercising to keep out improvements; and to have felt the power exerted by the dictum, "We want our women to be ladies of the old type."

The first councilwoman in Louisiana trained herself in knowledge of parliamentary law, public questions, etc., by serving in the State Federation of Women's Clubs. She organized and has for nine years been president of the Oakdale Civic league. "Meanwhile," she kept the devotion of husband, children and neighbors. The young people of Oakdale know that her home is always open for parties. She finds time to produce two or three plays a year for charitable purposes that bring all the civic spirits of town and parish together. Withal she is a most perfect hostess of a charming home which no visitor neglects."

To all this, Mrs. Lutie Fitzgerald of Oakdale, who thus describes her neighbor, adds courage. In the city government questions arose which Mrs. Brown could settle neither by tact nor by parliamentary skill. Politics ranged itself on one side. Mrs. Brown's belief in how it ought to be done ranged itself on the other side. Influence sided sometimes with politics. If politics was wrong on the one question, "Will this throw a bad mark for good on the city?" Mrs. Brown constantly voted against politics.

The painter has been "made the goat" long enough

It is about time that property owners realized that the painter isn't to blame when a cheap painting job does not last. It isn't from choice that the painter uses cheap paint and varnish. But he has to use them if the customer insists on looking for price instead of quality.

Let the painter figure on good paint and varnish. It may cost a little more by the gallon but very little more by the job. Labor is the big item and that's the same with a cheap paint as with good paint.

Good, honest paint and varnish like BREINIG BROTHERS Paints and Varnishes—whether they are for a porch chair or for your entire house. They are made to give lasting protection.

SEVERE CRAMPING SPELLS, PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

"My trouble has been periodic cramping spells," says Mrs. C. C. Draper, of Alanta, Texas. "For several years these have come on me so bad that I had to quit my work and go to bed. Every month I would stay in bed from one to two days. The pains in my back and sides were awful.

"This went on for several months after I was married until, one time when I was having a bad spell, my husband suggested that I try Cardui. I said I would try it, so he got me a bottle at the store and I began to take it.

"It seemed like I improved from the very first dose. When I had taken one bottle I was very much better. I did not cramp so hard the next month and I also slept better. I was not nearly so nervous, either. I thought Cardui was fine, so I continued the treatment until I had taken five bottles, at which time I felt completely well. I had no more cramping spells at all, and my health was as good as anybody's. I am feeling fine now and I give all the credit to Cardui, for I had been suffering for years before I took it."

Cardui is a vegetable extract, containing no harmful ingredients. It is made from mild-acting medicinal herbs that have a definite, strengthening effect upon certain female organs and upon the system in general. Its users have testified to the special value of it at the time of change of life, at maturity and at the time of the change of life.

For over 40 years, Cardui has been tested in use by thousands of women who have written to tell of the great benefit they have received from it. For over 500 years, medical authorities have recommended one of the principal ingredients of Cardui in the treatment of certain female complaints.

Cardui, the woman's tonic, tested by time, is today the product of many years of experience and investigation. It is manufactured in up-to-date laboratories by the most modern and sanitary methods of pharmaceutical science and is for sale by all druggists. 140

VERA

We can now sing "Oh the mud the beautiful mud"! We understand the fruit has not been injured by the recent cold weather.

Mr. Charley Lewis has returned from a business trip to Lynchburg.

H. W. Kinney made a flying trip to Lynchburg, Monday, on business.

R. A. Steffans has gone to Norfolk on business.

There is still a great deal of sickness in our midst — Mrs. Percy Garrett has been quite sick but is reported better.

Miss Bessie Gunter who has been attending school at the A. A. H. S. and has suffered a nervous breakdown, does not improve.

Mr. Kirk Megginson's little daughter, Emma Elizabeth, is still quite "poorly".

Mr. Dudley Marks of Bent Creek, is ill with pneumonia.

It seems that mud-slinging has become a pleasant pastime for some of our supposed christians who should be following the admonitions of the Master who said "Love is the fulfilling of the law"—"Oh the rarity o human charity". Read the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians to the 9th verse and see how many aspire to that prinacle of christian character.

There is so much good in the worst of us
And so much bad in the best of us
That it hardly behooves any of us
To talk about the rest of us.

North Side

Farmers around here are about through selling tobacco.

Mrs. Estelle Martin is ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonza Martin of Lynchburg, spent the week-end with their mother Mrs. Emily Chernault of Bent Creek.

Mrs. E. S. Vest who has been visiting her daughter, in Lynchburg is now with her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Robertson.

Jesse Reynolds has a very sick child.

Homer Reynolds' home is fal most complete and he expects to move in soon.

EVERGREEN

February the shortest and most noted month for its bad weather is drawing to a close. Now look out for fickle March with her cold blustery days, but just keep "sweet" we will soon enjoy the bright spring days.

The big sleet of last week did right much damage to our phone lines, but we have them all fixed up again.

Chicken thieves are very numerous around here, several have lost some of their choice birds and they are hard to catch, but they will be caught after while. One man has a burglar alarm installed in his house so we hope he will soon trap them.

Miss Madian Lee who was on the sick list last week is out again.

Owing to cold weather and bad roads there were small crowds at the churches Sunday.

Miss Ella Farrar of Appomattox was the week-end guest of Mrs. J. J. Farrar.

Little Randolf Evans who was shot in the foot by his brother while playing with a rifle last week is getting on nicely.

Owing to the illness of the teacher, Miss Gracie Ranson, our school has been closed for some time. We hope she will soon be able to resume her duties.

Miss Mattie Farrar of Lynchburg, was the guest of her home people Sunday.

With The Pack

Well as Rocks folks ask for full report of a fox chase I will tell you of it. This hunter lives out from Prospect over on the Buckingham line and he has dogs that he says (one in particular) that just can't be beat whether on a trail or in the chase. No on this particular hunt the jump was made over in the swamp of Appomattox river in Buckingham county and after one or two I believe rounds of some several miles of a straight run for this county was made, passing through some rough country about Jones Mill and then on to Mr. Roy Young's home passing through the yard about 9 o'clock in the night. The hunter explained to Mr. Young the very hard chase his hounds had and that he had already gone over five or six dogs or any way quite a number near Jones Mill, but that the whole pack was nigh well broken down having come from down in Buckingham across Prince Edward and was then headed up Vaughan Creek for Appomattox county and although the second pack was about broken down his frog dog was still in the lead and she was spelling out the most shrilling shocks equal to a wild whistling engine and nothing would do the fox hunter but that Mr. Young get up at one o'clock in the night and supplement the pack by ading in his two thoroughbred Beagles the hunter explaining that this old red fox had played so many pranks on him and the other hunters that he was going to follow him up and catch him if he would only stay on top of the ground, and on up Vaughan's Creek the whole pack went and as the hunters call it boys "music" well they had some dog yelling till they hit the folk of Cobbin branch or near that place up to Henry Wheeler's lower place and then the two barks were very distinct, so the men made for the scene in great haste and every now and then shouting encouragement to their favorites. Now I heard to say just listen at Spot she was the first one to treed money would not buy that dog I just know from the way she barks she can see that fox, but those that was in the hunt could not tell one dog bark from another, sounded like a pack of wild geese. Well the scene was reached and when all was in sight a tremendous large poplar was known to be up that way, so as soon as the hunter realized the place he was at he said boy that is an old coon that has been going up the river and this creek for the past five or six years and giving the dogs so much trouble and on went the men towards the old poplar, dog wood so thick you could hardly walk and every step or two twa's listen at Spot she can see that coon, boys so many dogs I am afraid he will jump out before we get there. But now we are at the dogs and fifty yards from the big poplar. So he said look around boys he is up in a fork of a dog wood, but Spot kept jumping at a limb about twelve feet from the ground and sure enough there was one of the prettiest black footed half grown Opossums that any dog ever put up a tree. Now if this hunter ever hears anything said of that eight or ten mile coon or fox chase he says yes but that was a genuine black footed Opossum and to save the reputation of what is considered by some the best coon or fox dog in Buckingham and Prince Edward. I am expecting someone to hand me over a free spot, however I will say nothing binding the longest pole always gets the persimmons. Come across with a ten spot and I will give full detail of the dinner that was served at this gentleman's home and how a black footed opossum was talked of on that occasion.

Lesson for March 2

THE REVIVAL UNDER SAMUEL

LESSON TEXT—I Sam. 3:1-7; GOLDEN TEXT—Prepare your hearts unto the Lord and serve Him only.—I Sam. 7:3.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Hannah Calls the Boy Samuel.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Victory at Mizpeh.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Samuel Served His Nation.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Revival Under Samuel.

Gross immorality and even anarchy prevailed during the close of the period of the judges, as we see recorded in the last chapters of Judges. Through the ministry of the last judge, Samuel, a brighter day dawned upon Israel.

I. Features of Israel's History in This Period.

1. Demoralized Priesthood.

(1) The priests were actuated by greed (1 Sam. 2:12-17). It was God's will that those who ministered at the altar should live of the things of the altar; but they took through the divine revelations touching this matter and were securing their selfish ends by force.

(2) The priests polluted the courts of God's house with the grossest immorality (I Sam. 2:22). We thus see that the condition of the nation was most appalling. When God's ministers are actuated by greed and practice uncleanness, degradation sets in rapidly below.

2. An Alienated People. The only thing which separates people from God is sin. The people who choose sin shall be thus separated from God.

3. A Cessation of Divine Revelation (I Sam. 3:1). God was silent ("The word of God was precious in those days; there was no open vision"). The message from the Lord was a matter of history.

II. God Calls Samuel (I Sam. 3:2-10).

Samuel's name means "Asked of God." He was given to Hannah in answer to prayer. In asking God for this son she vowed to dedicate him to the Lord. According as early as she took him to the tabernacle and gave him over to the priest Eli, Samuel's home was at Ramah. The tabernacle was at Shiloh.

Up to this time Samuel obeyed the one who was over him, but the time had now come when he must directly hear and obey the Lord. The first messages intrusted to him is a most terrible one. So terrible is it that it is said that when pressed by him, he manifested the true courage which was lying back of his fear. He announced a fearful visitation upon Eli's house because of the sins of his sons.

IV. Samuel Established in the Prophetic Office (I Sam. 3:19-21).

"And Samuel grew, and the Lord was with him, and did let none of his words fall to the ground, and all Israel from Dan even unto Beer-sheba knew that Samuel was established to be a prophet of the Lord."

V. Victory of Samuel—(I Sam. 7:1-14).

1. Samuel Calls Israel to Repentance (vv. 1-6). Some twenty years have now elapsed since Israel was humiliated by the Philistines. He asks the people to turn to the Lord with all their hearts, the proof of which would be:

(1) To put away their own licentious worship. This was really gross licentiousness under the guise of religion.

(2) To direct their hearts unto the Lord and serve Him only.

2. Israel Assembled at Mizpeh (vv. 5, 6). The purpose of this assembly was the confession of their sins. They poured water before the Lord, thus symbolizing their need of cleansing and the pouring out of their hearts in penitence before the Lord. They fasted and publicly confessed their sins.

3. The Philistines Attack Israel (v. 7). The assembly of Israel at Mizpeh alarmed the Philistines. They interpreted the gathering as a preparation to attack them, so they decided to attack first.

4. The Intercession of Samuel (vv. 8, 9). Samuel accompanied his intercession with a burnt offering, showing that he looked for acceptance in the sacrifice of another, even Christ.

5. The Victory Over the Philistines (vv. 10, 11). This was the result of God's interposition. "The Lord thundered with a great thunder that day and discomfited them."

6. A Memorial Set Up (vv. 12-14). Samuel set up a stone between Mizpeh and Shen and called it Ebenezer, which means, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

Shining Christians.

Unpolished hearts do not shine; so carnal Christians do not display the real luster of their true character.—The Christian Monitor.

The Real Thing.

Self-sacrifice is never the real thing, until self is forgotten clean and clear, in loving thought of others.—Christian Monitor.

Our School Orators

Students in the high schools of Appomattox are showing considerable interest in the National Oratorical Contest sponsored by The Richmond Times-Dispatch in Virginia, and are busily engaged in the preparation of their subjects. The representatives of each schoo will be selected on March 14 and will compete for county honors on March 21.

Through the courtesy of the Extension Division, University of Virginia, package libraries are being sent to school principals making applications for them. These libraries are invaluable to students in pre aring orations

The Times-Dispatch will give twelve cash prizes, amounting to $1,250, and 125 medals to Virginia contestants, and will pay the expenses of the Virginia champion to the Southern Zone Contest in Atlanta. If the Virginia winners gets into the national contest in Washington, he or she has an opportunity to win $5,500, $1,000 or $500. First and second prizes of $750 and $250 will be awarded the two best orators in the Old Dominion. The congressional district champions get a medal and $25 in cash, and the county winners a medal

The contest is designed to revive interest in the Constitution, and to increase respect for the organic law of the land. The orations, which must not exceed 12 minutes, must be based on the Constitution or the relation of Washington, Modison, Jefferson, Marshall. Webster or Lincoln to the Constitution.

In the Clerk's Office at the Circuit Court of the County of Appomattox at the 18th day of February 1924.

Mary T. Haynes, Trustee et als., Plaintiff; against Defendants.
